

The Gates of Hell (immobile carving)

This ritual requires at least three participants: divided into “recipients”, who will have their souls tied to Hell, and “witnesses”, who will not. One of the participants is the leader. They must assemble outside Hell. The leader must have a sharp weapon.

The leader calls out “Lord Satan, Mighty One, Wisdom Incarnate, Speaker of Knowledge, I ask that you bestow your blessings on these ones, who seek to follow your path and escape the prison that the enemy has placed over mankind.”

The other participants call out, “Hail Satan!”

The recipients will be surrounded by a flickering red light. The leader must cut each recipient’s hand and draw a pentagram on the head of the recipient.

The recipients must then call out together, “O Mighty Lucifer, I ask that I may enter your dark realm, so that I may be in your unholy presence, and free from the chains and injustices of the mortal world. Guide me, Satan, unto yourself, and may I be forever grasped in your mighty wings.”

The red light will envelop the recipients. This consigns their souls to Hell, and their current forms will soon fade away. (They can continue to act normally until game end.) A soul so consigned cannot later be consigned to anywhere else.

The flickering light will then fade.

Involuntary Version

This ritual can be performed on an unwilling recipient. To do so, two of the participants other than the leader must be restraining the recipient, who does not need to speak and cannot interrupt the ritual while restrained. Instead of the recipient’s line above, the leader must recite “O Mighty Lucifer, I ask that you take this one into your dark realm, into your unholy presence, and may they never again trouble the mortal world. Take this one, Satan, unto yourself, and may they be forever within your grasp.”
