Maybe this really is hopeless. even with all this magical help, these second chances, you're just making things worse. If only Tomoka had been able to help. But now that you think about it, she probably got killed in that big fire.

If you help defeat someone's Shadow

Maybe things aren't so hopeless after all. You're defeating shadows, getting stronger. If you work together, maybe you can win.

If your Shadow is defeated

Memories shift, and you remember a strange vision. It must've happened when your Shadow died. Was it from Hephaestus? You saw the seven of you, with Philemon, and then suddenly a particular bio lab in a sub-basement. There were scientists in white coats, standing in a circle around strange equipment. One of them intoned "Open the Gateway, and may Death come under our command!"
