If you lose against someone's Shadow

Well, that could've gone better. But it's not all lost. When the Shadow got stronger, some of its power seemed to leak through its connection to the Persona-user. Shadow abilities are different from the Persona attacks you normally get, so that could be useful. Unless the strong Shadow connection makes them more likely to betray you...

If your Knowledge reaches 4

New memories come. You remember doing extensive analysis of Shadows and their weaknesses, figuring out the patterns, the visual effects of the elements. Death doesn't look like a normal Shadow, though. It looks like those Mind attacks you've seen. Which means its weakness, if it has one, is probably Blast.

If you fail while revisiting a Disaster

I guess you're back to your old tricks again, huh? Charging in underprepared and just making things worse. Magical time-travel doesn't change who you are, and being back together again doesn't change your flaws.
